PRESIDENT WILL OFFER PLANS ON LABOR AND WAGES

Proposal Be Made For Board To Impose Flexible Week

BILLS BE OFFERED TO ADVANCE IDEAS

Conferences on Program With Connery and Rayburn Saturday

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Capitol Hill heard with intense interest today that on Monday President Roosevelt will toss his long-awaited recommendations for labor legislation into a congress seething with controversy over his court reorganization bill.

He was quoted as telling congressional leaders today that he would propose the establishment of a board of three to impose a flexible working week of 35 to 40 hours, a minimum weekly wage of $16.00 and a ban upon the shipment of child labor-made products in interstate commerce.

At the same time, Chairman Black (D-Ala) of the senate labor committee and Chairman Connery (D-Mass) of the house labor committee intend to introduce in their respective houses identical bills framed to carry out the ideas advanced by the chief executive.

Continuing a series of conferences on the labor program, Mr. Roosevelt conferred today with Connery and Majority Leader Rayburn of the house. Connery outlined the program to reporters upon his departure from the White House.

Tomorrow he will go over his proposals with Black and with Majority Leader Robinson of the senate, who will jointly bear the responsibility for uniting behind the measure a Democratic party widely disrupted by the court reorganization bill.

For Unemployment Study

During the day, Black's committee was busy approving a bill to provide a federal investigation of unemployment. The bill would establish a commission of five to fifteen members, which would make recommendations to congress on the best methods of administering unemployment relief. Relief funds of $50,000 maximum would be provided to finance the inquiry.

The committee also approved a bill to make $20,000 available to the labor department for a continuation of its study of the social and economic phenomena accompanying the migration of labor from one state to another.

Leaving a White House conference, John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, said the CIO was "quite in support" of the President's labor proposals.

Prominent officials disclosed tonight that the general labor legislation would empower the government to fix varying wage minimums to meet varying conditions, and that in some instances the minimum might be as high as $1,200 a year.

Additional last-minute changes are expected to include:

(1) A provision exempting from the law interstate businesses employing less than 15 workers. Certain businesses considered purely intra-state in character also are expected to be exempt.

(2) A provision giving the government authority to bar from interstate trade channels foreign goods manufactured under working standards inferior to those provided in the new bill.

There were indications that in addition to time and a half for over-time ,the legislation would provide for double time when hours of work exceeded a certain number.

Farmers, as well as service industries and such retail establishments as department stores, are expected to be exempt from the bill, officials said.

UAW PREPARES FOR DRIVE ON FORD

DETROIT, May 22.—(AP)—The United Automobile Workers disclosed today its headquarters for the drive to organize Ford Motor Company workers in suburban Dearborn will be "on the Detroit side of the fence."

The U. A. W. A. has leased two bank buildings, both on the Detroit side of the street marking the Dearborn city limits, for offices which will open Monday.

From these two "Dearborn" offices, the union will direct its campaign to sign members among the 60,000 employes at Henry Ford's huge Rouge factory, called the largest single industrial unit in the world.

Establishing the offices starts the "sit-in-the open solicitation of members and Richard T. Frankensteen, U. A. W. A. organizer, hinted there might by "some formalities," but would not say what these might be.

BOY HITCH-HIKERS ADMIT SLAYING

PIERRE, S. D., May 22.—Formal arraignment of two Chicago hitchhiking youths on charges of slaying a South Dakota school teacher who gave them a ride was delayed today while state and county officials arranged for compliance with the law governing juvenile delinquents.

Meanwhile Norman Westberg, 17, and Howard Christensen, 16, charged with fatally beating and shooting Miss Ada Carey, 26, school teacher yesterday, were held at Onida, but officers planned to bring them back here this afternoon.

Both Westberg and Christensen, Sheriff Jack Reedy has said, have admitted killing the teacher and have indicated their desire to plead guilty to charges of murder which is expected to be placed against them.

S. A. POWELL DIES IN AUTO AS IT PLUNGES IN DITCH

Possible Prominent Elk Fork Farmer Suffered Heart Attack

Samuel A. Powell, 61, prominent Elk Fork township farmer, was killed, or died suddenly about 7 o'clock Saturday night, when he lost control of his automobile while driving on a farm to market road, about 2½ miles north of Green Ridge. The car went into a ditch and turned over three times. Allen Ragar, riding with him, suffered only minor bruises.

Mr. Powell had been in Green Ridge and was returning to his home, five miles north of Green Ridge, driving his Ford V-8 sedan. He lost control of the automobile, the car went into a ditch, turning over as it did, and both men were thrown out.

The accident occurred near the William Bell home, from which help was summoned. Dr. H. A. Hite, of Green Ridge, was called, but Mr. Powell was dead upon his arrival. Dr. Hite said he could find no broken bones and expressed the opinion that Mr. Powell who had been suffering from heart disease, might have had a heart attack, which caused him to lose control of the car. It was possible, he said, that death could have been caused from heart disease rather than the result of the accident, or injuries suffered therefrom.

His body was taken to his home.

Mr. Powell was a descendant of one of Pettis County's early pioneer families, a well known and influential farmer and stockman. He was born in Elk Fork township December 12, 1876, a son of Charles H. and Kate Whiteman Powell. He married Miss Emma N. Zimmerschied in 1897.

Surviving Mr. Powell are his wife, one son, C. E. Powell, a postal clerk of Kansas City, and a daughter, Mrs. Bessie Miller, Redlands, Calif.

Mr. Powell was a stanch Democrat, and for many years served as a county committeeman. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and belonged to the Methodist church.

DEATH SHOWERED ON 30 AS SHELLS DROP ON MADRID

Bombardment By Insurgent Batteries Is Heaviest In Weeks

LOYALIST FLIERS TO BILBAO DEFENSE

Three Ships Carry 3,000 Refugees From The Basque Capital

By The Associated Press.

MADRID, May 22.—Insurgent batteries showered death on 30 persons and wounded more than 100 today. The bombardment, one of the heaviest in weeks of pounding at the capital, lasted three hours.

Shells dropped into all sections of the city, and explosions shook the American embassy, officially closed. One shell crashed into the hotel where most of the foreign correspondents are living.

The fire came from emplacements insurgents have held for months in suburbs of the besieged capital. Four died and 26 were wounded in a bombardment yesterday.

Reports from all fronts indicated increasing government pressure as part of a plan to help Basque defenders of Bilbao by drawing insurgents from that front. Heavy artillery duels were reported from Guadalajara to the north and Toledo and Jarama to the south of Madrid.

Government troops pressed along the road to Corunna just outside Madrid.

Government Fliers To Aid

Dispatches from Hendaye, in the Franco-Spanish frontier, said fifteen Spanish government warplanes flew to the defense of Bilbao as insurgent armies shifted their attack with a drive on a sector southeast of the Basque capital.

The government planes had been forced down by weather Monday on French territory, but French authorities and officials of the international non-intervention committee finally permitted them to take off. Four French planes escorted them to the frontier.

While Basques awaited arrival of the government aviators, insurgent planes flew over Bilbao, where three ships were departing for France with 3,000 refugees, but no bombs were dropped.

Basques turned back the new insurgent drive in a battle seven miles west of Durango and about ten miles southeast of Bilbao.

Northeast of Bilbao, insurgent troops almost completely encircled the Basque position at the flaming village of Munguia. Basque and Asturian troops were on the alert for surprise attacks.

Meanwhile, in Bilbao itself, President Jose Antonio Aguirre of the Basque republic, declared the fate of two captured German aviators rests entirely in the hands of their former comrades fighting with the insurgents.

The fliers, Captain Walter Kienzel and Lieut. Gunther Schulze, downed on the Basque front, were condemned to death by a Basque court yesterday.

They are almost certain to be executed, the president said, if German planes with the Spanish insurgents continue bombing the Basques.

During the afternoon, an insurgent plane bombed a passenger train leaving Bilbao, destroying one coach and seriously wounding one woman and eight men.

In Berlin an earnest warning against ruthless treatment of Spanish war prisoners generally was voiced by the foreign office through its mouthpiece, the Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz.

(The publication did not mention the death sentences passed on two German airmen at Bilbao or a reprisal threat broadcast by insurgents.

(The warning was worded to caution both sides. It called attention to the fact that ruthless treatment of "hostages or prisoners" might only increase bitterness and bring "automatic reprisals" likely to make the whole situation worse.)

Investigate Air Attack

CERBERE, FRANCO SPANISH FRONTIER, May 22.—The French government tonight was investigating a Spanish insurgent air attack during which machine gun bullets whined in the streets of this French frontier town.

Chief question in the investigation was whether the insurgent plane, one of four that flew over the town, intended to machine gun Cerebere or Spanish Portbou, just across the border.

Regardless of the insurgent plane's intentions Cerbere townsfolk scattered in panic this morning when the plane flew in from the sea and rattled some 40 bullets in the village streets.

Spanish border officials said the four planes were German. French customs guards near the frontier declared the bullets were of German make.

The slugs barely missed a patrol

PAUL HENDERSON INJURED IN WRECK

Paul Y. Henderson of Springfield, former Sedalian, was injured but it is believed not seriously, about 1 o'clock Saturday morning, when his Buick sedan he was driving was in a collision with a transport truck. The accident occurred on highway 66, four miles west of Cuba, as Henderson was returning to Springfield from St. Louis, where he had filled a business engagement.

Henderson was taken to Dr. Scott's hospital at St. James, and it was thought at first his condition was critical. His brother, Robert Q. Henderson and Mrs. Henderson, of 1014 South Massachusetts avenue this city were summoned, and left immediately to be with him.

Upon their arrival at the hospital early Saturday morning they found the patient much better than they had anticipated. An examination later in the day failed to disclose any internal injuries other than a slight concussion on the brain, and there were no broken bones so for as could be determined. He will probably be brought to Sedalia Monday.

Henderson is an executive of the American Participations, Inc., associated with Walter N. George.

The car was demolished.

WOULD DISCUSS ARMISTICE IN SPAIN

LONDON, May 22.—(AP)—Great Britain won German's approval today of her proposal for discussion of an armistice in the Spanish civil war.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador in Berlin, informed his government that Germany—which, like Italy, has recognized the Spanish insurgents—was "sympathetic" with the plan for halting hostilities while all foreign troops are removed from Spain.

Diplomatic sources said France, Belgium and the Holy See had sanctioned the truce proposal.

The plan is scheduled for discussion at a meeting of the 27-nation non-intervention committee Monday; and informed persons predicted it would gain general approval.

A statement from the Spanish insurgents that they will not agree to the armistice has been carefully ignored in London, while silence from the Spanish government side has been glossed over.

(Insurgent General Millan Astray broadcast a warning Thursday that anyone in the insurgent ranks who ever "pronounces the word armistice will be considered a traitor.")

LOWLAND CROPS ARE DAMAGED AS CREEKS OVERFLOW

Sedalia Had 2.48 Inches of Rain Since Mid-Afternoon Friday

Heavy rain which fell Friday afternoon and night, caused a sudden rise in Flat Creek and Muddy Creek early Saturday morning which in several places went out of their banks overflowing lowlands. Some of the growing wheat and newly planted corn was lost because of the high waters, it was reported.

The precipitation for Sedalia from mid-afternoon Friday until Saturday morning measured 2.48 inches.

Flat Creek made a sudden rise and almost as suddenly receded and it was said by some farmers residing near its banks it was the highest since 1905. Muddy Creek acted somewhat the same but held its height for several hours Saturday giving alarm to farmers residing west, north an dnortheast of Sedalia, fearing that it would sweep away their crops.

Farmers in some lowland sections reported the rise did some damage but did not express fear of losing all of them.

Robert Paul who resides near Flat Creek, reported the loss of a cow which was caught in a low field and was drowned.

The Warsaw Branch train of the Missouri Pacific started for Warsaw about 5:30 a. m., but upon reaching the Flat Creek bridge stopped and the crew backed the train back to the depot and remained there until 9:20 when they again departed on the trip. The arrival back in Sedalia was made about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

No automobile traffic was delayed over 50 or 65 highways because of the heavy rains.

ELEVEN RUSSIANS REACH THE NORTH POLE IN AIRPLANE

Four Other Planes Ready to Fly Equipment for the Polar Expedition

INDICATES SOVIET WILL CLAIM REGION

Group Plans to Spend the Summer and Winter at North Pole

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 22—Eleven Soviet Russians waited tonight on an ice floe near the north pole for the equipment that will enable four of them to spend the summer and winter at the top of the world.

Three planes were awaiting a signal at Rudolf Island, 560 miles from the pole, to take provisions and a warmly-lined easily-carried house to the party which flew over the pole yesterday and made camp on the ice 13 miles away.

Seven will be brought back to Rudolf Island. Four men and a dog will establish the first permanent north pole air base as the initial step in a plan for airplane flight between Russia and the United States across the top of the earth.

The dog, a small pet animal, is expected to help by giving warning of bears or other polar animals that approach the camp.

Moscow newspapers indicated Soviet Russia intends to claim ownership of the polar region as a result of the flight, even though no land exists there. Headlines said the red flag would continue to wave over it.

(In Washington, state department officials said earlier the fact that Admiral Robert E. Peary planted the American flag in that region in 1909 does not mean the United States claims it. They declared no question of sovereignty ever has arisen because there is only ice-filled sea.)

In the first detailed report of the expedition's activities, Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, the black-bearded flyer, reported late today:

"Everything is excellent. The men spent their first day on the ice erecting five tents and putting the radio antennae in operation.

'Some of the instruments already have been installed and meteorological observations have begun. * * *

"The weather is comparatively warm—10.4 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. The sun is shining and a light wind is making the snow drift."

In an earlier message, the first since yesterday, Schmidt said:

"All men are in good health and good spirits."

The trail-blazing plane was not expected to remain long at the pole, and the three others at Rudolf Island ,once they have flown the equipment north in response to Schmidt's awaited signal, will start back quickly.

First To Reach Pole

As newspapers hailed the achievement, a noted Russian professor, R. Samoilovich, director of the Arctic Institute, came forward with the assertion that the airmen would be the first actually to reach the north pole.

He discredited the claim of Admiral Robert E. Peary, asserting that "as has now been ascertained Peary was not at the pole itself but 150 kilometers (94 miles) from it."

(Peary's claim to having reached the pole April 6, 1909, has been disputed, but the United States congress voted it undisputable and the National Geographical Society of the United States recognized it. Dr. Frederick A. Cook asserted he reached the pole ahead of Peary.)

"The Soviets will be the first to go to the pole," Professor Samoilovich said, "not for the sake of records but for a great and serious task."

Schmidt, in an interview before he left Moscow, strongly hinted at a future trans-polar air service to the United States but made no promises.

Air Station at Pole

"A station at the pole" he said, "is of special importance as a point of radio contact. Airplanes which will fly in this region in the future and which will perhaps even make regular flights across the pole to America will be able to get their bearings from such a radio station and will receive precise weather reports."

Because of the absence of land near the pole, landings of commercial planes will be difficult.

Government officials have been inclined not to talk about trans-polar service since Pilot Sigismund Levaneffsky failed in an attempted non-stop hop from Moscow to San Francisco August 3, 1935. Levansffsky turned back before reaching the pole, when oil trouble developed.

Much thought has been expended on the portable folding house in

OFFICERS ACTIVE; ARREST SEVERAL

Police activities were hurried along Saturday night when several calls came in rapidly and State Highway Patrolman Paul E. Corl with Deputy Sheriff Clyde Coppers arrested several drivers which he looked "driving while intoxicated."

The activities were as follows:—A man who gave his name as Raymond Coleman arrested by Officer L. N. Englund for being intoxicated and disturbing the peace. He was found in an alley just off Lamine avenue between Main and Second streets.

A man who gave his name as Carl Davis, residing near Longwood, and picked up near the county line north of Sedalia on Highway 65 by Officer Corl, was booked at police headquarters with driving a car while intoxicated, then lodged in the county jail.

Returning to north 65 Highway Officer Corl came upon a car in the 200 block on West Main street which was blocking traffic. He placed a man who gave his name as J. W. Wigand, 403 East Sixth street, in the county jail after booking him at police headquarters accused of driving while intoxicated.

A man who gave his name as Joe Emery was arrested in the 500 block on West Main street by Officer William Couhig for being intoxicated. A call was then made after picking up Emery to Engimner avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets, where a drunk was reported to be boisterous, but had departed before police arrived.

After booking Wigand, Officer Corl again started back on his Highway mission and at the curve on Highway 65 and Osage avenue, he came upon a Chevrolet readster, which had run into a ditch and driven by a youth who gave his name as Clyde Sneathen and returned to police headquarters with the boy. He booked Sneathen with driving while intoxicated.

Sneathen suffered a deep laceration under the chin which took five stitches and a cut across his nose. He was given medical attention by Dr. Gordon Stauffacher who happened in at police headquarters. Sneathen gave his address as one mile north of Sedalia on Highway 65.

POLICE WAGE WAR ON ROAMING DOGS

The Sedalia police department will assist Lanna Paxton, dog catcher, on making a "cleanup" of Sedalia of loose dogs, Chief of Police John J. O'Brien, announced Saturday evening.

Because of numerous reports received by the police of people being attacked by dogs, and because many are running through people's yards and tearing up gardens, a campaign to rid Sedalia of such animals was decided upon Saturday.

A. B. Grady, 207 East Sixth street reported late Friday night he was bitten by a German police dog. This dog with another dog were found near Fourth street and Ohio avenue Saturday shortly before noon. The police took them to the dog pound where they are being held for examination.

A child was reported to have been bitten by a dog in front of 110 East Fifth street, Saturday morning.

Any dog which carries a city license on its collar will be picked up and the owner notified. A small "dog pound" charge will be assessed against the owner. Other dogs will be killed by the dog catcher.

A. F. OF L. FORCES TO CINCINNATI TO FORM STRATEGY

To Consolidate Ranks In War With Rival Organization of Lewis

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI May 22.—Decisions vitally affecting the future of the American Federation of Labor and strategy to meet organization efforts of the Committee for Industrial Organization were in prospect today as 106 national labor leaders assembled here for two weeks' conference.

Executive sessions will get under way tomorrow.

Frank Morrison, of Washington, D. C., secretary-treasurer since 1897, and his assistant, Irving Bucklin, established headquarters in a hotel.

No sooner had they arrived than the CIO fired its opening gun to organize the important machine tool industry here.

Fred Foss, organizer, told a mass meeting in suburban Oakley, one of the major centers of the industry, that metal trades plants "soon will be organized lock, stock and barrel."

Morrison declined direct comment on the CIO's recent membership drive, but reporting an A. F. of L. increase of 1,881,709 since August 31, 1933, observed that the figure did not include "the ten national and international unions that stand automatically suspended since September 5, 1936."

These formed the nucleus of John L. Lewis' rival organization.

Morrison referred all inquiries as to federation policy to President William Green, who with other national officers, is expected to arrive from Washington tomorrow.

It was no secret, however, that strategy for meeting the CIO compaign was uppermost on the agenda of the executive council.

Morrison said a survey completed only two days ago listed A. F. of L. membership at 3,908,505.

To Ask Contributions

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders headed for Cincinnati tonight to consolidate their ranks and raise money for their war with rebel John L. Lewis.

The federation's high command expects to ask all local unions join central bodies for the summer campaign.

Leaders have suggested that union dues to the federation—now one cent a month for each member—be doubled temporarily to fill the war chest. Well-informed persons said this war fund had dwindled considerably since the executive council suspended ten of Lewis' unions for "insurrection" last Seutember. These ten unions included 900,000 members.

Leaders also were eager to consolidate federation forces locally so a united front could be presented against the Lewis forces throughout the country. In the past, for a variety of reasons, many local unions have refused to affiliate with central bodies.

The rebellion reached new heights of bitterness this week with a series of desertions from the A. F. of L. to the Lewis camp.

To meet C. I. O. tactics, federation leaders intend to organize workers wherever they can and to distribute them among craft unions after they are organized.

Privately, both C. I. O. and A. F. of L leaders smiled at peace talk that has been going around since the Atlantic City convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers, a Lewis union.

The split is so wide, leaders say, that there is only a faint chance for peace for years to come.

Several important business matters of importance to the entire membership will be taken, these including Decoration Day closing and the election of delegates to the National Grocers convention at Boston. CARS DAMAGED IN A COLLISION SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Lawson Schaberg, 1500 South Vermont, avenue, driving a delivery truck for the Milton grocery, and Miss Jessie Trueman, 1416 South Prospect avenue, driving a Ford sedan, collided at Tenth street and Ohio avenue Saturday afternoon. Both cars were badly damaged.

R. F. Trueman and La Verne Trueman accompanied Miss Trueman, and it was reported received slight bruises.

The police made an investigation.

Fined Over Improper Plates

Charles Goetz arrested by State Highway Patrolman Paul E. Corl for driving an automobile without proper license plates, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Leli Hutchinson, Saturday.

"On a Sunday Afternoon"
To Those Who Work!

We realize that there are many people who find it almost impossible to spare the time during the week to make an intelligent and satisfactory selection of wallpaper. After all, the proper thought and attention should be given since wallpaper is a rather permanent part of the home once it is hung.

There are many women who prefer to have their husbands assist in selecting the paper, and in almost every case, this has been hard to accomplish because of the conflict with working hours.

For these reasons, we are going to hold "Open House" this (Sunday) afternoon. No merchandise will be sold, but you are invited to look, and be shown, leisurely.

NERVES CAUSE OLD AGE

Dr. Roy M. Keller

Laboratory experiments indicate that premature old age may be caused by irritated nerves. Eight month old dogs were subjected to prolonged irritation of the sciatic nerve by injection of normal brain emulsion into the sciatic nerve. Within 1 to 1½ years they showed all the signs of old age that should not appear until they were 12 to 14 years old. They showed emaciation, dryness of skin, loss of much hair, eyes frequently suppurate and water, teeth decay, gait unsteady. After this period of irritation of the nerve they were left in peace but the signs of old age appeared from the irritation of one nerve.

Chiropractors contend that nerve irritation is the cause of disease and it is quite logical that irritation of the nerves, at the point where they leave the spine, could cause premature old age in man as well as in dogs.

The chiropractor is skilled in locating these points of irritation and correcting the condition which caused them.

Scientists show clearly that irritation of nerves in any part of the body can be the cause of disease and death. Pains or aches in any part of the body indicate that there is irritation. Get the cause removed and prolong your life.

STATE FAIR TO HAVE A TRAILER CITY

Secretary Charles W. Green announced that the first Trailer City will be provided for visitors who bring their modern trailer homes to the 37th annual Missouri State Fair, August 21-28. It is thought to be the first project of its type to be inaugurated at any state or district fair.

Trailer City will be equipped to accommodate 200 or more trailer homes, the space for cars and trailers to be allotted by a superintendent, in a plot near the center of the fairgrounds. Electric power lines are being installed, with individual drops ready for trailer cable connections. Water and modern sanitation facilities will be available and conveniently located for exclusive use of the trailer residents during fair week.

Plans for the trailer city were instigated because of a growing prevalence of trailer homes now being occupied at leading fairs by performers, concessioners, exhibitors and tourists. The necessity for such arrangements were discussed at length in the annual meeting of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, at Chicago, last December, but Missouri State Fair is thought to be the first in the nation to provide trailer facilities for its visitors.

BRICK HOMEMAKERS CLUB IN MEETING

The Brick Homemakers Club met on Friday, May 18th at the home of Mrs. Harry Broderson, with Mrs. Arthur Sanders as assistant hostess. There were thirteen members present, seven adult visitors, Mrs. Lina Homan, Mrs. Gertz, Mrs. Martha Broderson, Mrs. Fred Holman, Mrs. Sam Homan, Mrs. Frank Homan and Mrs. Delbert Melendy, and also twenty-two children.

The morning session was devoted to a memory program for mothers, and roll call was answered by a poem about "Mothers."

At noon a covered dish luncheon was served.

Miss Zagrodzky, the home extension agent, was present and in the afternoon gave a most instructive talk on the care of the sewing machine. She also illustrated a very complete sewing kit which can be made at a small cost. Printed instructions for making the kit were handed out to all members and visitors.

A general discussion of 4-H clubs and their value followed Miss Zagrodzky's talk, and a meeting will be held at the Brick school house on Monday, May 24th at which time Miss Zagrodzky will explain further 4-H club work to the young people of club age.

Plans were made for a community gathering to be held in the near future, and a commitee composed of Mesdames Gertz, Page and Brodenson was appointed to complete details for the program.

The business meeting was then adjourned, and the club was favored with a piano solo "The Holy City," by Mary Elizabeth Parsons, and a voice duet by Misses Norma and Esther Broderson, in keeping with the Mother's Day program, "When It's Lamp Lighing Time in The Valley."

The club will meet in regular session June 15th at the home of Mrs. Ira Page. Roll call will be answered by a "A Point in Feeding Threshers."

After dinner the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Herman Humes. The meeting was opened by singing "Juanita," and repeating the Lord's Prayer.

The president then read a card which the club had received from Fred Looney. This card expressed appreciation of the kindness shown to him during the illness and at the time of death of his wife. Mrs. Fred Looney was a former member of the club.

An interesting discussion of the history of the club was given by the president, Mrs. Humes. This club was formed in 1914 and has been active since its formation.

The members who enjoyed the day with Mr. and Mrs. Brown were: Mrs. Mae Stratton, Mrs. Forest Fisher, Mrs. H. Nolte, Mrs. Pearl Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Herman Humes, Mrs. A. J. Mergen, Mrs. M. A. Flammang, Mrs. Pearl Keyte, Mrs. Lawrence Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rothenberger, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brown and daughter, Mary.

Special guests of the club at this meeting were Mrs. Mae Hampton and daughter, and Mrs. Will Brown.

During the business meeting it was agreed that due to the busy farm season the next meeting will be held on Sunday, June 13. This meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Mergen, Route 6, Sedalia. All members are cordially invited to attend.

Four boards are to be bought for social tables.

It was voted to leave the kitchen lamp until later.

The vote was carried in favor of the summer meetings to be held in the different homes. The next meeting will be at Mrs. H. F. Baugh's, June 11.

Mrs. Kurman Riley was elected assistant secretary. Mrs. Baugh and Mrs. Kurman Riley were appointed for the program committee the next month.

A letter from Mrs. McCormick was read and discussed about what our P.-T. A. could furnish for the display at the State Fair. It was decided to send a scrap book.

Delicious refreshments of cake, coffee or cocoa were served by the hostess.

Baby whales, hammerheads, and all kinds of whaling equipment is open in full view, and everything is carefully explained by the Captain and his corps of assistants. Eleven Russians Reach The North Pole In Airplane which the four men are to spend a year at or near the north pole.

The framework is of duralumin. It will be covered with rubber cloth, on top of which will be large inflated rubber cushions. Then came a layer of tarpaulin and deer-skins, two layers of silk eider-down quilts and finally a thick tarpaulin soaked in a liquid which will prevent its decay.

No Land There

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—State department officials said today no question of sovereignty over the area about the north pole ever has arisen because there is no land there.

For hundred of miles in every direction from the pole, geographers said, there is nothing but open sea, filled most of the time with large expanses of ice floes.

The fact that Admiral Robert E. Peary of the United States navy, is credited with having discovered the pole on April 6, 1909, and planted the American flag on that spot does not mean that the United States lays any claim to the territory, it was said.

American authorities added that regardless of any possible future claim to sovereignty over the area which might arise the flight of Soviety aviators, who established a base there yesterday, was a magnificent exploit. They said it should contribute much to the world's scientific knowledge of weather and current conditions in that little known region.

Cook There First

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, 71-year-old Arctic explorer, said tonight he was confident a detailed report by Russian scientists who yesterday flew over the north pole would substantiate his claim of being the first white man to reach the pole.

For almost 30 years, Dr. Cook has insisted he reached the pole more than a year before Admiral Robert E. Peary, who planted American flags at the uppermost extremity of the globe.

"The most important information about the north pole since I was there on April 21, 1908, will come from the Russian scientists," Dr. Cook said. "Their description of the land they flew over before they reached the pole will prove I actually was the first."

Dr. Cook recently underwent treatment for an "occupational" disease—a foot ailment caused, he said, by wearing snow-shoes on his exploration.

TURN SPOTLIGHT TO THE HOUSE ON SOCIAL SECURITY

Assembly Members Now Fix June 10 to 12 As Windup Time

JEFFERSON CITY, May 22.—The legislative spotlight will shine next week on the house social security committee, which has virtually stopped the show the past 10 days by delaying action on the Casey social security bill, passed by the senate.

Leaders in the assembly who thought they might get home by June 1 after the senate swung into action now are picking June 10 to 12 as windup day, none too hopefully.

The house can't act on Senator M. E. Casey's measure until the committee does. Indications are it will come out with amendments which—if approved by the house—will throw it into a conference committee of house and senate.

It is understood an attempt will be made to leave mailing of monthly checks to the aged in the office of State Auditor Forrest Smith, who has repeatedly objected in hearings to that task's being taken away. The bill places it in the administrative office of the proposed social security commission.

Also under committee fire are said to be provisions for trained social workers in each county to check applicants for old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and relief—combined under one administration in the Casey measure.

Chairman Morris Osburn, Shelby county, has called the third committee session on the bill for Tuesday night, and indicated it may require another meeting or two.

Meanwhile Governor Stark is urging passage of the bill before June 1, fearing the state will lose federal matching of old age assistance grants.

A twice postponed hearing of the U. S. social security board will be held on that date, at which Missouri must show cause why U. S. aid—expected to total more than $15,000,000 this biennium—should not be withdrawn because of administrative defects in the present Missouri law. Casey's proposal is said to correct them.

When the Casey bil clears the assembly there still will remain a time-consuming dispute over whether the pooled type of unemployment compensation fund favored by organized labor, o rthe employer reserve bill asked by the Associated Industries, will be made law.

The senate bill carrying the pooled plan is in the house social security committee and the house reserve plan bill in the corresponding senate committee. Neither is displaying much interest in getting the other's plan out on the floor.

Final form of the 2 per cent sales tax bill may be settled in the next few days since the house finally has indicated satisfaction with the technical procedure used by the senate in sending the measure over.

Indications are the house will be asked to reject senate changes in the bill—which include added exemptions and a 3 per cent debate to merchants—and that it will be sent to a joint group of the two houses to be ironed out.

Featured on the senate calendar for the next few days are the proposed 3-cent gasoline tax—likely to come up for a vote Monday or Tuesday—and the suggested constitutional amendment cutting the minimum years for old age assistance from 70 to 65.

ENDEAVOR TO SETTLE SIT-DOWN STRIKE IN MINE

Threat To Remain There Until Company Willing To Arbitrate

GILLESPIE, Ill., May 22.—(AP)—The first break toward settlement of an underground sit-down demonstration of more than 360 coal miners who have been voluntarily entombed 360 feet below the surface at nearby Wilsonville since Thursday afternoon came tonight when they authorized a strike committee to begin negotiations with company officials.

John Fisher, president of the Gillespie local, Progressive Miners of America, came up from the mine shaft shortly before dark and stated:

"The men are willing to have the strike committee begin negotiations, but they will continue to remain underground during the conference."

Earlier in the day F. S. Pfahler, Chicago, president of the Superior Coal Company whose No. 4 mine at Wilsonville is being held by the miners, said the company would not settle the strike until the miners had evacuated. The strikers are demanding a "share-the-work" plan to give jobs to idle employes.

Late today Fisher and Michael Campion, member of the five-man strike committee, met with D. D. Wilcox, mine superintendent, and agreed to ask approval of the miners to open negotiations with Pfahler, who returned to Chicago after going down into the mine and talking to the entire group.

Fisher said he had been informed Pfahler would return to Gillespie tomorrow to discuss terms of a settlement.

"Ready to Arbitrate"

"We are striking for the right to share our bread with our brothers," said John Fisher, president of Local No 1 of the Progressive Miners of America, of which the strikers are members. "We will stay down until the company acts on our demand. We are ready to arbitrate."

Each spokesman declared he would not make the first advance for a conference to ward settlement.

A demand by the union's executive board that the miners end their "unauthorized" demonstration "at once" was met with an announcement by strike leaders that union members on the surface were discussing the possibility of conducting a sympathetic sit-down on company property.

Coming up on top after a visit of about an hour in the mine, Pfahler reported 369 men still remained in the pits. Yesterday he had placed the number at 457.

"The men are in good health, fine spirits and sanitation conditions are good," he declared. "They have the mine cleaned-up and in good shape. There is no disposition to damage any of the property, but, on the contrary, the men are seeing that no damage is done."

Joe Firth of Benld, Ill., state mine inspector, also went below to check up on sanitation and safety conditions. The company has kept electric light, ventilating and pump systems in operation to eliminate as far as possible health hazards of life 360 feet below the ground.

Firth said the mine was slightly cool and somewhat damp, but the men were in "good shape" and were "having a good time generally," singing to the accompaniment of the self-styled "Sit-Way-Down Band," made up of instrument ranging from bass drum to accordian.

A 9-piece German band from Benld and Gillespie, which planned to entertain the miners, was kept from going below by orders of the company that no outsiders be taken down. Instead the band played in front of a telephone connecting the mine office with the pit. The strikers took turns listening at the receiver.

The above picture, taken by John Joe McGrath, won first prize in a contest conducted recently at the Continental Club in Kansas City. It is that of an eccentric Negro dancer, whose stage name is "Motor-cycle."

The contest was open to everyone and there were about thirty photographers with many and various kinds of cameras. John Joe and Don Middleton were the Sedalians present. Both are members of the Camera club, both interested in photography as a hobby.

The award was four chicken dinners and other merchandise, which John Joe states he is going to have Middleton collect.

SPARK FROM SKY MAY BEEN CAUSE OF HOLOCAUST

Such Is Possibility Advanced by Eckener On Hindenberg Blast

By The Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 22.—A spark from the sky and a broken brace wire—these two things, Dr. Hugo Eckener said today—were the probable causes of the flaming disaster which overtook the majestic Hindenburg on May 6.

The veteran German Zeppelin master acknowledged that his theory called for the coincidence of two extremely remote possibilities to account for the holocaust in which 36 died, but he told the commerce department investigating board: "Since the whole occurrance is extremely mysterious, we must proceed along these lines."

It was the concensus of eye witnesses, he pointed out, that the first fire broke out in the stern of the ship. "From this we conclude that there must have been free gas in the rear section of the ship," he said.

The only likely explanation for this free gas, he went on, was that a brace wire had snapped a few minutes before, puncturing an aft gas cell and causing a sudden leak.

The gas leak, he indicated, probably occurred only a short time before flames enveloped the ship, for otherwise the loss of buoyancy would have been so great it would have been noticed.

The spark of static electricity that probably ignited the free highly inflammable hydrogen came at this moment. Dr. Eckener said he believed likely, from the air masses overhead.

It was his opinion, he explained, that the thunderstorm which delayed the Hindenburg's landing May 6 was followed by a "tail" which probably went unnoticed at the landing field where all attention was focused on the approaching ship.

This storm tail, he theorized further, generated a steeper potential gradient, that it increased the voltages above it. When the difference of voltage between the ship and the more highly charged masses overhead became too great, he said, the fatal spark could have resulted.

It was also possible, he said, that the discharge of the Zeppelin's static to the ground by landing ropes could have further increased the differential between the ship and the charged air masses overhead.

The doctor, who is regarded as the world's leading authority on lighter-than-air craft, dismissed all other theories on how the gas could be ignited as either "impossible" and "improbable."

The question of sabotage was put to him, and he answered with a shrug that there were no definite clues to support such a belief and he could regard it only as a theoretical possibility.

When he concluded his testimony, he said he would go to Washington tomorrow, apparently to open negotiations for obtaining non-inflammable helium for future use in German commercial dirigibles. The hearing adjourned until Monday.

CHARLES C. GAY DIES OF INJURIES

Charles Callaway Gay, of Long Beach, Calif., who was seriously injured May 19th, passed away the next day in a hospital in Long Beach. He is survived by his widow and son, of the home, and two daughters, of Los Angeles. One sister, Mrs. J. H. Wade of Los Angeles, another sister, Mrs. A. L. Mudd, and a brother, H. W. Gay of 1216 South Kentucky avenue this city, also survive.

TO CONSTRUCT DRIVE IN EATING PLACE

An application has been made to the city for a permit to build a drive-in eating establishment on the site from Broadway to Ninth and from Ohio to Osage avenue. The cost of the structure will be approximately $9,000, and it is to be erected by Miss Nellie Winstead and Miss Catherine Winstead, of Springfield, Ill., who recently purchased the property. The establishment will occupy the entire block with the exception of a filling station now under construction on the northeast corner.

The building will be of brick, glass and steel, open on three sides, with a four foot canopy all around covering a four foot walk, for serving customers in cars. Driveways will furnish entrance and exit from Broadway, Ohio and Osage, while on the Ninth street side there will be a garden, with tables.

W. C. Cramer has been awarded the contract for the brick work.

DEADLINE FOR WORK SHEETS ON NEW FARMS SET

Township Meeting Announced For Wednesday and Thursday

The state agricultural conservation committee has notified the county committee that the dead line for filing out work sheets on new farms has been set for June 10. Also, all field work on estimated participation forms, as well as work sheets on split tracts must be in the county office by June 10.

In order to give farmers an opportunity to fill out these forms for their farms, a series of township meetings will be held. As this is the last meeting that will be held in the townships, all producers who have not filled out these forms on the 1937 program are urged to attend.

It is necessary to execute work sheets on each farm where parts of tracts have been added or dropped this year and on all farms that were not covered by work sheets last year. Soil depleting bases and productivity factors cannot be established unless work sheets are executed.

By filling out the estimated participation forms on their farms, farmers will have a much better understanding of the way the 1937 program will apply to their farm. Below is a schedule of the meetings:

Mrs. Harry Milton, speaking for the women of the Temple, presented Mrs. Kendis with a gift, and spoke of her work among the women, her Sunday school class, her activities in the Sisterhood, and the many charitable things she has done.

NEBRASKA KEEPS ITS BIG 6 TRACK AND FIELD TITLE

Kansas Is Runner-Up and Kansas State Third; Francis Sets Mark

By WHITNEY MARTIN

LINCOLN, Neb., May 22.—(AP)—Nebraska sun smiled only for Kansans today as Coach Henry Schulte's Cornhuskers gained a final corner on Big Six championships in major sports by retaining the outdoor track and field title.

The Huskers couldn't quite reach their three score and 10, but their 67½ points provided an ample margin over the runnerup Kansas Jayhawks, who collared 49½. Third place went to Ward Haylett's Kansas Staters with 37 points. Oklahoma, with its maimed Eddie Toribio just among those present, scored 25; Iowa State 24 and Missouri, runnerup in the indoor meet, 22.

The high jump and pole vault were the events in which the records fell, and they were tied to place, and they

Ten teams already are lined up and the league, which is scheduled to open Tuesday, June 1, may be limited to that number. However, this and other detail arrangements will be left to the various teams to decide.

Coach Donald Davenport of Smith-Cotton high school, who is supervisor of the league, urges that all teams be represented at the meeting so that plans may be completed and play started on the scheduled date.

A new fence has been erected around the baseball field at Liberty Park and additional construction work is planned on the site but it will not interfere with the softball program..

Booster Softball Team to Play Columbia Club at Park Friday Night

The Missouri Pacific Booster softball team will meet the Boone County Lumber Company team of Columbia in an exhibition game under the Liberty Park floodlights at 8:00 o'clock Friday night.

The game will be the official opener of the local softball season and it is being sponsored by the Booster club to provide funds for the sending of the entire membership of Boy Scout Troop 12 to summer camp.

The Boosters are expected to prove one of the leaders in the local field and they will have an outstanding opponent in the Columbia team which won the championship of its home region last year.

In addition to the Booster-Columbia contest there will be a preliminary game and a band concert by the Booster band under the direction of R. R. Ramlow. The contestants in the preliminary have not been selected as yet.

Rookie Hamlin Baffles Cards With Three Hits and Dodgers Win 4 to 1

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—Rookie Luke Hamlin baffled the Cardinals through nine innings today, letting them down with three hits as he pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 4 to 1 victory.

Going the route for the first time in the big leagues, the former American Association flinger allowed Pepper Martin a double in the first, Johnny Mize a single in the seventh with two out, and Don Gutteridge a single in the ninth. Those were the only three gas house gangsters to touch him.

The Dodgers collected ten hits off Jim Winford, Mike Ryba and Ray Harrell. One of their safeties was long Tom Winsett's second homer in two days, made in the sixth inning.

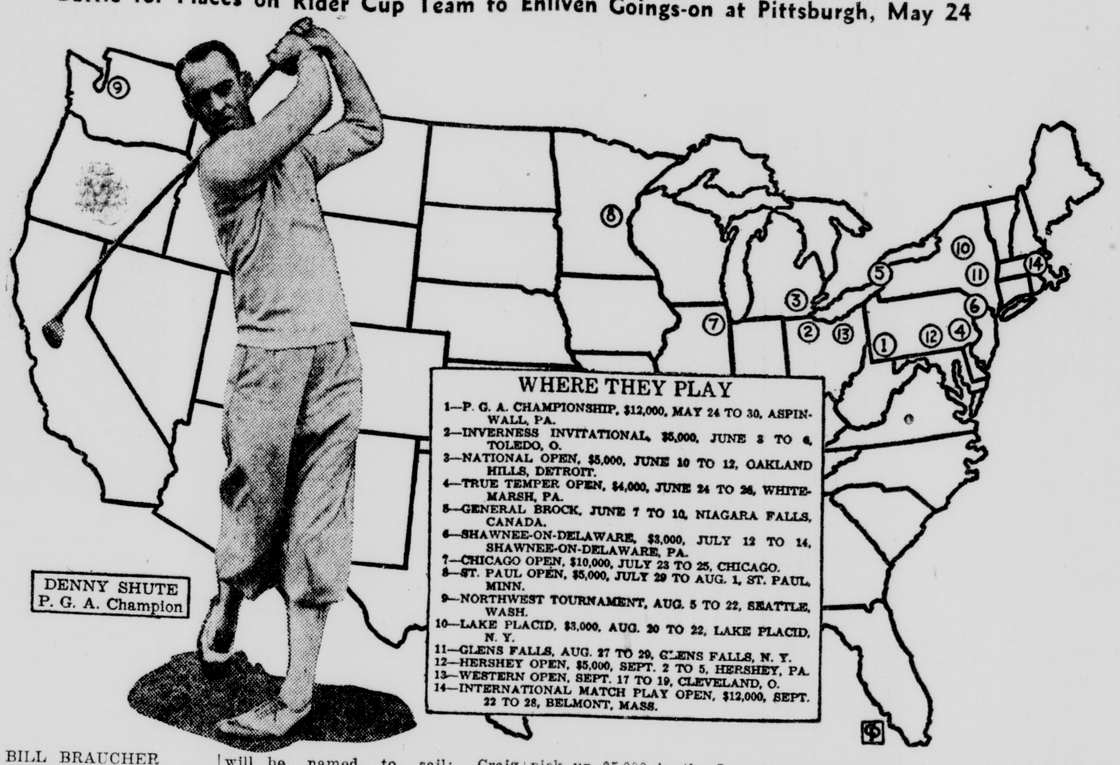
FLYING SCOT COPS THE WITHERS MILE

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—John Hay Whitney's Flying Scot, a poor third in the Preakness a week ago, showed what he might have done in the Pimlico classic but for the presence of War Admiral and Pompoon when he scored an easy victory in the 62nd Withers mile at Belmont Park today.

The son of Porter breezed home two lengths in front of Marshall Field's Charging Cross to earn the purse of $15,050. Four lengths farther back came Mrs. Julia M. Loft's Mosawtre, fourth in the Preakness, to take the show money in front of five other three-year-olds.

PROFESSIONALS START BIG SUMMER GOLF SHOW

Battle for Places on Rider Cup Team to Enliven Goings-on at Pittsburgh, May 24



By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 2.—Golf's big summer show, which started with the recent Metropolitan Open in New York, gets under way in real earnest when the professionals battle for fame and gold May 24 to 30 at Pittsburgh.

In the P. G. A. tournament, Denny Shute will defend the title he won last fall, but overshadowing Shute's attempt to keep the crown will be the struggle of 13 men for four places on the Ryder cup team which goes to England next month. Scores in the P. G. A. will determine which four of the following 13 will be named to sail: Craig Wood, Dick Metz, Paul Runyan, Ed Dudley, Sam Snead, Vic Chezzi, Jimmy Hines, Ray Mangrum, Harold McSpaden, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Olin Dutra and Ky Laffoon.

Pick Shute to Repeat

Experts are picking Shute to repeat in the P. G. A. because the nature of the course at Aspinwall is tailored to his iron game, but the war between the 13 mashie-wielders named should be of earth-shaking proportions, for these are the very best names in modern golf.

After the struggle at Aspinwall, the main tent moves to Toledo to pick up $5,000 in the Inverness Invitational, after which the National Open will be staged at Detroit, June 10 to 12. Jack Doyle already has posted odds for the Open, with six favorites quoted at 10 to 1—Harry Cooper, Henry Picard, Ralph Guldahl, Johnny Revolta, Horton Smith and Al Watrous.

Warn of Sam Snead

Doyle reveals that he thought Al Watrous was a jockey or ball player until inquiries began to pour in, asking for the price on the gentleman to win the big event. Doyle asked around and discovered that Watrous was professionel at Oakland Hills where the Open will be contested, and further that Al can get around that course in nothing flat, without blinkers. So he moved Watrous into the first flight.

In the second division, at 15 to 1, are Nelson, Runyan, Mangrum, Little, Hagen, Sarazen, Manero, Shute, Thomson, Mac Smith, Ghezzi, Cox, Laffoon, Snead, McSpaden, Metz, Serafin, Armour, Hines, Walsh, Burke, Dudley and Mortie Dutra.

Experts say Sam Snead, young man from White Sulphur Springs who spoiled the soup for the veterans during the winter tournaments, and went red hot through the Mtropolitan Open, is the dark horse.

SCHOOL GIRL GOLFER WINS

ATLANTA, Ga., May 22.—(AP)—A 17-year-old school girl, Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, displayed the competitive spirit of a veteran today to defeat Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., 2 and 1, and win the women's southern golf championship.

PIRATES BEAT BEES, 5-2

PITTSBURGH, May 22.—(AP)—The parading Pittsburgh Pirates made use of a three run rally in the seventh inning today to down the Boston Bees 5 to 2. The victory evened the Boston series and kept intact the Pirates' record of not having lost two straight this season.

TALES IN TIDBITS

Southpaws Stand Out in Pitching History
Hubbell Wins Rank With Grove, Marquard
Ferdie Schupp's Feat Greater Than All

NEW YORK, May 22.—It is unfortunate that Carl Hubbell's great pitching record of 22 straight games must be qualified in the record books by the winter of rest between his sixteenth and seventeenth consecutive victories . . . but it is no misfortune for the Giants that the boys are writing about the streak as though Hub has set a new world record . . . the Giants are pretty sure to catch King Carl's competitive fire . . . a ball club with a pitcher who is hot is a hard club to beat whether the ace is pitching or not . . . a pitching streak gives a team a lot of confidence and momentum.

The Giants of 1912 got so tough in the period when Rube Marquard was rolling up his record that they might have won with McGraw himself on the mound . . . Smoky Joe Wood, now baseball coach at Yale, was pitching 16 straight for the Red Sox that year, too, and the Boston club went on beating the other teams whether Joe was in there or not . . . they had acquired the winning habit.

Six years ago the some thing happened in the American League, when Lefty Grove suddenly became invulnerable and fire-balled his way through 16 straight victories . . . the Athletics were unstoppable . . . every player on the club believed he was helping Grove to win . . . and went on helping other pitchers to win through faith in himself . . . ball players are that you, you know . . . I have heard infielders pat themselves on the back by mentioning their pride in the fact that they played on the A's when Lefty was enjoying that streak . . .as though they had played dramatic parts in the play themselves.

* * *

The left handers seem to have all the better of it as far as pitching streaks are concerned, with three names standing out in the history of the game—Marquard, Grove and Hubbell . . . there are many baseball men who add another name to that list, Rube Waddell, and they call him the greatest pitcher of them all . . . they mean the flinger with the most natural ability . . . though I'd take Walter Johnson for my choice in that respect . . . I have been in more arguments than any man living because for all around pitching ability, I think Grover Cleveland Alexander was the greatest pitcher of them all, with all due respect to Christy Mathewson, too . . . Grover won consistently for a club that for years was one of the humpty-dumpties of the National League . . . and he led those traditionally lowly Phils to a pennant with his pitching prowess and the spirit he generated.

* * *

But to get back to southpaws again, the boys have to drag out the name of Ferdie Schupp when they want to speak of effectiveness . . . back in 1916 Schupp was so good that figuratively the enemy didn't get a run off him in 30 games . . . he got into 30 games that year, and allowed the opponents of the Giants .90 earned runs per game . . . Left handers have left some marks for control, too . . . 30 years ago "Doc" White of the White Sox didn't walk a man for 65 consecutive innings . . . but when I think of control, the picture of Herb Pennock in his last few years with the Yankees comes to mind . . . his fast one gone forever, he depended upon aim and knowledge of batters. . . . I think Pennock was one of the smoothest, most graceful performers the game has known.

Big Ten May Rule Out Participation in Events Not College-Sponsored

By The Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 22.—The Western Conference Faculty Athletic Committee appointed a committee today to prepare a resolution to prohibit Big Ten athletes from competing in any meets or events except those sponsored by colleges or conferences of colleges.

The action, apparently aimed at keeping Big Ten stars out of the annual championship meets of the Amateur Athletic Union, all-star football games and similar events, would not become operative until after next December if it is adopted. The committee was instructed to report its resolution at the annual winter meeting in Chicago next December.

WORLD MARK SET AS MICHIGAN CAPTURES BIG 10 TRACK TITLE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 22.—Captain Robert D. Osgood, a lanky senior from Lakewood, Ohio, scissored over the 120-yard high hurdles in the dazzling world record time of 14 seconds today to embellish a smashing Michigan team triumph in the 37th annual Western Conference track and field championship meet.

With rain pelting at his back, the Wolverine leader, defending a title he won last year at Columbus, Ohio, bettered the accepted standard of 14.1 seconds, set and equalled several times by Forrest (Spec) Towns, the University of Georgia's Olympic champion, last year.

Although there was wind driving the rain, officials of the meet said it did not exceed two miles an hour, and that the spectacular achievement probably would be offered for approval as a world record.

Osgood's triumph contributed five points to Michigan's victorious total of sixty points, and helped the Wolverines reclaim team honors from Indiana. The Hoosiers, charging along with 21 points from its matchless distance trio of Don Lash, Tom Deckard and Jimmy Smith, finished second with 44 points, and Ohio State claimed third place with 42.

Other points were distributed as follows: Illinois 24½; Wisconsin 23; Iowa 9½; Chicago and Minnesota, 8 each; Northwestern and Purdue, 3 each.

Lash, drum major of Indiana's distance squad, a victim of appendicitis attacks for the past two weeks, strode to triumph in the mile and two mile runs for the third straight year.

A's Sweep Series With Chisox and Regain Lead

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—The Athletics swept a two game series with the Chicago White Sox and climbed back to the top of the American league by taking an 11 inning battle today as Cleveland lost to Washington.

Tying the score on Chubby Dean's homer in the ninth with two out and none on base, the Mackmen won by a score of 10 to 9 when Frankie Hayes singled Wally Moses home in the 11th with two gone and the bases filled.

Manager Grimes Slaps $1,000 Fine on Mungo for Breaking Training

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Manager Burleigh Grimes today fined Pitcher Van Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers $1,000 for a before-dawn breach of training rules by the hurler involving a fist fight with a teammate.

The tempermental pitching ace was also suspended for three days.

The fine is one of the largest ever pinned on a player in the National league.

Mungo was accused of going into the Dodgers' hotel headquarters this morning after an evening of entertainment, breaking into the room of Infielder Jimmy Bucher, and, after waking him, tangling with him in a fist fight.

In addition to his fine and suspension, Mungo also paid for the fracas with a black eye. He was not in uniform at the start of today's game with the Cards. Bucher, who at first denied he took part in the row, turned up with a bandaged right hand.

The suspension, effective immediately, expires Monday night.

Reached by telephone in his hotel room, Mungo, when informed of Grimes' action, said, "I don't think the fine will be that high." Assured that it was, he replied, "I'll pay it and forget about it." He said he had no intention of leaving the team.

ATHLETICS PLAY JEFFERSON CITY AT PARK TODAY

Sedalia Ball Club Seeks Third Straight Win in Its Home Debut

The Sedalia Athletics baseball team will make its first home appearance at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Liberty park diamond when it meets the Jefferson City Tweedie Shoe Co., team.

The Athletics have been successful in their first two starts on out of town diamonds and hope to open the home season with the same success that marked their first games.

Gene Horner, fire ball pitcher for the Athletics, will be on the hill this afternoon opposed by Collins who is reputed to be a real pitcher. Horner has been piling up an amazing record of strikeouts and has had little difficulty in subduing the opposing hitters. Observers say that he is a much improved pitcher over last season. Jesse Sumners who has been the club's regular receiver for the past two seasons will do the catching.

The 1937 edition of the Athletics is practically the same as the one which went through a schedule of 33 games last year with 20 wins to their credit. On first base will be the fancy fielding "Lefty" Livengood, who is rated as one of the best semi-pros in this section. Spreck Lobaugh will be at second base and "Seesmore" Light at short. These two lads have a record of nearly a hundred double plays in the past three seasons. On third will be Harry Small, another star with the 1935 team.

The outfield is composed of "Tabby" Case, one of the team's hard hitters, in left field; Tim Barnes, another clouter in center field, and Forrest Zey, who clouted the ball for a .366 average last season, in right field. The reserves will be John Thomas, pitcher and outfielder, Joe Brownfield and Clyde Waters, outfielders, and Manager Palmer Nichols who has been filling in occasionally in the infield.

The visitors' lineup will be: Maxey, 1b; Laux, ss; Grider, 2b; Slaughter, 3b; Stokes, cf; Morris, rf; Stringer, lf; McClure, c, and Collins, p.

Murderers' Row Revived as Yankees Rout Browns

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—for the first time this year, the Yankees looked like the world champion murderers' row of 1936 as they clouted a pair of pitchers for 16 hits and a 14 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Only Lou Gehrig went hitless as the Yanks went on their biggest hitting and run-making spree of the season to cash in on Lefty Gomez's nine-hit, five-strikeout pitching.

The Browns never had a chance as they caught the Yanks in a slugging mood.

Giants Beat Cubs, 3-2, on Home Run by Mel Ott

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—Mel Ott, benched only yesterday for weak hitting for the first time in his career, came back today with a three-run homer that gave the New York Giants a 3 to 2 victory over the Cubs.

The win returned the Giants to third place in the National League and dropped the Cubs out of that spot.

The Giants were held to five hits by Larry French and Bill Lee.

VIOLATORS OF "HOT" OIL ACT FINED

By The Associated Press.

HOUTSON, Tex., May 22.—Six oil men and companies pleaded guilty in federal court today to charges of violating the Connally "hot" oil act and were fined and given suspended jail sentences.

Fined and given six to 18 months suspended sentences were A. N. Adelson, $10,000 fine; D. D. Feldman $10,000; M. D. Carter, $7,500; Oren D. Roberts, $8,500; Frank Bennett, $10,000, George Arnold Jr., Bennett's associate, was fined $10,000. The Higrade Oil Company's president, E. C. Hines, entered a plea of not guilty for his firm.

Three companies, Adel Oil Company, Adeltex, and the Channel Transport and Marketing Company, had pleaded guilty and been fined a total of $35,000. Sentence on C. S. Farmer, former Waco district attorney, who had pleaded guilty, was deferred until June 5.

The case of L. R. Hepworth, and Otis H. Gibson resisting removal from the eastern district of Texas, remained on appeal. H. E. Hines had not been arrested.

No plea has been entered for the Crescent Oil and Transport Company.

Trial for th remaining defendants is set for Monday.

The indictment had charged the 10 men and six oil firms with one count of conspiracy and nine substantive counts in connection with the alleged production of "hot oil" in the Conroe field and shipping it in interstate commerce.

It alleged that more than 100,000 barrels of illegal oil was co-mingled with allowable crude and transported through the Houston ship channel.

Upon recommendation of Federal Assistant Prosecutor Red, Judge Kennerly dismissed the conspiracy charge, accepting pleas on the allegations of overt acts named in the indictment.

TO PAY BILL OF WORLD WAR DAYS

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—President Roosevelt signed today a bill to pay the Japanese government approximately $48,000 in payment of a claim dating from world war days.

Papan's claim arose from its undertaking in 1918 to deport several hundred German and Austrian subjects from China to Australia for interment.

The project, the state department told congress, was abandoned, but not until Japan had expended 627,193 yen to alter two ships.

The United States rejected the claim when first presented, but a search of its files convinced the state department it was justified, on the ground the American minister had agreed to take part, along with Japan, Great Britain and France.

COMMENCEMENT IN TIPTON SCHOOLS

The close of the public schools of Tipton were the center of interest this week with all of the events in the new auditorium, and at each of these large audiences filled the hall.

On Sunday evening the baccalaureate services were held, the lovely spring flowers forming decorations. Rev. Wolf of the Baptist church was the speaker and his subject, "Possibilities of a Life," was aptly applied. The high school chorus was presented in two numbers and Rev. William McNeil of the Methodist church gave the invocation and pronounced the benediction.

On Monday evening the candle service was held with its pretty ceremonies. The decorations were particularly noticeable. Small tables were arranged around the entire hall, on each of which was a vase of colorful flowers and two tall tapers in candle sticks. The varicolored dresses of the girls were also a lovely note in the circle of students.

Outstanding in interest during the week was the graduation of the nine eighth grade pupils:

Elsie Louise Albin
Doris Marguette Herrnlehen.
Dora Janet Krohn.
Helen Yvonne Morris
Gloria Jeanne Wray
Charles William Bond
Raymond Lee Burriss
Frederick Henry Knohn, Jr.
Frank Edward Nelson.

The program opened with a series of songs by the girls and boys singly and in groups, and a prayer by Rev. McNeil. Miss Mina Schricker, the teacher, then presented the class in a program of choral readings that ranged from David's Psalms to the present day. It was in five groups: Native poets, religious, patriotic life and ronsense. The performance was perfect, the action spirited and the group individually and as a unit brought themselves great credit, the memory test alone being a fine tribute to the class.

Supt. Repp then introduced the speaker Fred B. House of Warrensburg.

This class was of interest in that every member received a certificate of honor for having completed the reader's course of 24 books and Frank Nelson an award for perfect attendance. These Supt. Repp presented with the diplomas.

ASSOCIATED CHURCHES TO ELECT OFFICERS

(By Church Reporter)

The Associated Churches of Sedalia will meet next Monday evening in the Broadway Christian church. The election of officers will take place at this meeting. Four laymen and the minister from the participating churches are expected to attend. Reports will be given by the chairman of the various departments. There are many things that churches can accomplish together that they cannot do apart, therefore it is to be hoped that a large representation will attend the meeting next Monday night.

EDUCATION TO SUCCESS

Two hundred and six Smith-Cotton students will officially receive the honor of having successfully completed the requirements of a high school education Thursday night when they are handed their diplomas.

From that time on their activities are not restricted to certain studies, routine class education, a schedule of when to work and play. It is an individual against the world in a friendly competitive way.

Each of the two hundred and six will basically have as his goal success, some measured in gold, some in happiness and others in fame.

Few graduates will pursue their education in colleges; some will continue their learning in institutions of business while others may add to their knowledge through daily tasks in the home, preparing themselves for a home of their own. I say pursue or continue education because never will a man or woman complete his or her education to a point where added knowledge is no longer desired.

The constitution of the United States gives each and every man, woman and child the right of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

With these rights guaranteed the road to success, with few exceptions is hard work intelligently done at some worthy vocation.

SECOND FLOWER SHOW

The second flower show under auspices of the Sedalia Garden Club Friday provided an excellent display of atttractive spring blossoms and while it was too early in the season for many flowers to put forth their gorgeous blooms a wide variety was displayed and visitors viewed them with keen interest and delight.

Through the garden club and its circles the growing of flowers and beautification of lawns and premises in Sedalia has been enhanced and the members feel justly proud of their endeavors.

Floriculture is highly interesting and beautification resulting from it is well worth the effort expended.

It is indeed marvellous what a few tiny seeds will unfold and the little expense required to add to the attractiveness of one's garden, or premises.

Seed sellers this year report business exceptionally good, more so than in recent years, and this is indicative of a fine array of flowers for the summer and autumn.

BARS NEWS FROM BRITAIN

Suppose we were to pick up our newspapers one day and find a formal decree by Franklin D. Roosevelt, alleging that the British press had been unfair to American armed forces and summarily recall all American news correspondents from London.

Suppose on the next day, and the next, and the next, opines the New York World-Telegram we were to look through our newspapers and find nowhere in all the columns a single British news item or picture—not even anything about the coronation or David Windsor and Wallis Simpson. Suppose, also, that we twisted the dials of our radios but heard no mention of anything occurring in the greatest empire on earth, and went to movie theaters and saw newsreels from which all British scenes had been expunged.

If you can stretch your imagination that far you possibly also can stretch it far enough to imagine what would soon become of the American state of mind. And how by word of mouth the most fantastic gossip would spread among us about the doings of the British Empire—from one person that the Canadian armed forces were massing on our northern border, from another that British men-of-war were anchored off Bermuda, preparing to attack our Atlantic shores, and from another the whisper that Hindu regiments had been landed in Mexico and were moving north toward the Rio Grande.

Weird, isn't it? Yet, censorship such as that described above actually has been put into effect in Italy, by order of Dictator Mussolini. In Italy today, insofar as the customary channels of information are concerned, the empire on which the sun never sets has ceased to exist. Il Duce did this because he got mad about what British newspapers were saying regarding Ethiopia, and Italian meddling in the Spanish war.

GAVE HIS LIFE

In New York City the "department medal of honor" was awarded to four members of the police force who in the last year were killed in the discharge of duty. Their pictures are printed in the New York Times. One of them was Leroy J. Sheares, a young Negro, and the language of the official award was as follows:

"Patrolman Leroy J. Sheares, Thirty-second precinct. On April 18, 1936, while off duty, in civilian clothes, entered an apartment at 34 West 136th street in search of a man who had criminally assaulted a nine-year-old girl. He encountered several men in the apartment and while interrogating them he was stafbed and fatally wounded. The assailant was arrested in the premises by another patrolman."

The young policeman, Sheares, lost his life in the cause of protecting women from the crime for which negroes have been lynched.

All Americans, white and black, have a right to be proud of this black man. When men die heroic deaths in performance of duty such deeds bring praise and commendation.

GOOD OLD SUMMER

What is the best season of the year? Summer, to most people—though the other seasons, especially spring, have their charms. And the older you get, the more you will like summer, the more you will dread winter.

Spring corresponds to our babyhood. It is the sprouting season, full of hope, dreams, uncertainty, danger of frost.

Autumn is like the waning years of life, when we harvest as we have sown, when we suffer for our negligence and mistakes and are rewarded for our effort. Most of us, when we look backward in the autumn of life, say: "If I only had my life to live over again. . . ."

Winter, of course, corresponds to human death, the hibernating of old growth until new growth is ready to sprout and bud.

All three of the seasons are preparatory to or the aftermath of summer. And summer is the period of LIFE—of accomplishment—symbolic of the lives we are living. Lucky are you who have survived the frosts of life's springtime. Your crop of success is started. Toil and weed, for autumn of life will be upon you before you are aware. For results, it's now or never.

WITNESS AS AN ACCESSORY

From the Columbus Dispatch.

A legal interpretation, which despite its apparent reasonableness probably will be vigorously assailed and tested, made its first appearance in American jurisprudence a few days ago. A New York judge held for the grand jury as an accessory in a criminal negligence case a passenger in the car of a hit-skip driver whose machine struck and killed a man on grounds he had failed to report the accident to the authorities.

The contention of police who brought charges against the man and the opinion of the judge who ordered him held for the grand jury was that an individual who sees a traffic offense resulting in death or serious injury committed, and deliberately fails in his duties as a citizen by not reporting it, is as much an accessory after the fact as a gunman's accomplice. The fact of his being a guest in the car of the hit-skip motorist does not lessen his obligation to law and order.

To extend the status of a witness, either voluntary or involuntary, so as to make him an accessory, not because of participation in the act but because friendship or indifference or sheer inertia leads him to withhold valuable information, seems logical and necessary to any vigorous program designed to lessen the fearful toll of life and limb in traffic mishaps.

The MOUTHPIECE

FICTION

COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By EDGAR WALLACE and ROBERT CURTIS

READ THIS FIRST:

Charles Stuckey, senior member of a London law firm with a questionable reputation, is informed by cable from America that Miss Jacqueline Smith, daughter of one of his few respectable clients, now on the continent with her mother, has inherited $1,500,000 from an American uncle. Colonel Alec Lutman, who has a hold over Stuckey, learns of the inheritance and proposes a scheme to which Stuckey reluctantly agrees. The plan calls for Jim Asson, an ex-convict, to marry Jacqueline, having her assign her property—before Stuckey informs her of the inheritance—to her new husband. Lutman plans to take three-fifths of the inheritance, Stuckey and Asson each one-fifth. Lutman and Asson go to Cobenzil to cultivate Jacqueline and her mother, stopping at the same hotel where Mrs. Smith finds herself in dire financial straits. Asson, in the role of a wealthy Englishman, already has impressed Mrs. Smith as an admirable "catch" for her daughter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"That," the Colonel remarked, "is a most striking thought"

CHAPTER 8

JACQUELINE turned away and left her mother. But she did not go in search of Jim Asson; instead, she went up to her bedroom and flung herself into an armchair and thought about him. Jim Asson, had he but known it, was being paid a compliment. To no other man whom she had met during her "wandering about Europe" had Jacqueline accorded the honor of a few minutes' serious thought. And there had been quite a number of them whom her mother had deftly maneuvered into friendship and then, after satisfying herself as to their financial possibilities, had hopefully handed over to Jacqueline, stamped with her approval as prospective sons-in-law. But the girl had refused to take them seriously: the fat little German at Vienna, the tall, cadaverous Italian count at Naples, the chinless young Englishman in preposterous plus-fours in Paris. And her mother had sighed in secret over the rather too determined chin which Jacqueline had inherited from her father, and had tried to make her realize that in a husband who has a five or even a four-figure income, fatness or thinness or even chinlessness can easily be forgiven. Jacqueline's father, she pointed out, had been a very handsome man, but his good looks had not saved his widow from the discomforts of third-rate hotels.

But Jim Asson was sufficiently different from the general run of Mrs. Smith's selections to deserve at least a few minutes' serious thought. Jacqueline, since he had arrived at the hotel, had spent a good deal of time in his company and had found him a pleasant enough companion; but a partner for tennis or a dance, she told herself, and a partner for life, were two entirely different propositions, and she began to consider Jim Asson point by point in relation to the more permanent position.

He was quite good-looking; he dressed well—just a shade too well, perhaps; he was an expert dancer—once again, just a shade too expert, perhaps; and he was very attentive and considerate. He was inclined to sulk if he couldn't have his own way, and although he pretended that he didn't mind, actually he hated it when she pulled his leg and laughed at him. But Jacqueline decided that she must not count that against him, because if she waited for a husband who didn't want his own way and didn't mind being laughed at, she would probably die a spinster.

He had, it seemed, quite a lot of money. She trusted her mother on that score. And although she was still young and romantic enough to believe that if she loved a man money wouldn't make the least difference, wandering about Europe and living in third-rate hotels had made her sophisticated enough to realize that if love fluttered into her life with the rustle of banknotes, it was none the worse for that.

All things considered, Jacqueline decided, Jim Asson would make quite a good husband except for the fact that she wasn't in the least in love with him.

* * *

Lolling in a deck chair on the hotel terrace, Colonel Lutman was gazing through his right eye at the "magnificent view of the Danube valley" mentioned in the hotel brochure. In his left eye, feeling that it would add the last convincing touch to his military appearance, and that in a matter of such moment no detail was too small for careful attention, he had fitted a monocle, with the result that at present he could see nothing through his left eye with any degree of clearness.

"That," he remarked, "is a most striking thought."

Jim Asson, sprawling in the adjoining chair, glanced at him inquiringly.

"All this," said the Colonel, sweeping his cigar round the landscape. "It has just struck me that all this—just the same as it is now—was here a thousand years ago, and that a thousand years hence it will still be here. And the point of that profound reflection, my dear James, is this: that though the river Danube will no doubt be here in a thousand years' time, we most certainly shall not."

Jim frowned.

"What are you getting at, Lutman?"

"Simply this: that in view of the regrettable shortness of human life, it's time you got a move on. We've already been here a week, and the expensive engagement ring which I bought in Paris is still in my waistcoat pocket."

Asson's frown deepened.

"I'm doing my best," he said sullenly. "But it's damn difficult. It's no use trying to rush things."

"I agree," said Lutman, with a nod. "But it's as well to remember that time is an important factor. I have satisfied myself that they know nothing at present, but there's always the risk that in some unforeseen way the girl or her mother may come to hear of Redfern's death, and in that case I'm afraid you might not seem quite so desirable as a husband."

"I know that as well as you do."

"That, my dear James, is very modest of you. It's also as well to remember that I am investing quite a lot of money in this little venture—our hotel bill for the week was quite a heavy one—and I'm naturally anxious to see you happily married as quickly as possible."

"I tell you I'm doing all I can. If you're not satisfied, try to marry the girl yourself."

"No, I don't say I'm dissatisfied," said Lutman. "Love is a tender plant, James, and won't stand too much forcing. I'm only anxious to know how matters are progressing. Have you, for instance, kissed her yet?"

"Mind your own confounded business, Lutman."

"But, my dear James . . ."

"And I wish you wouldn't keep calling me James. You do it only because you know it annoys me."

"What I was about to say, Jimmy, was that this kissing question is very much my business. A kiss is an indication of progress, the first definite step toward the altar; and as I have a financial interest in your arrival there, I'm naturally anxious to know."

"All right. If you must know: no, I haven't kissed her."

"Not kissed her? But we've already been here a week!"

"I dare say we have. But Jacqueline isn't the sort of girl you can kiss in the first five minutes. It's difficult."

"Judging by appearances," smiled Lutman, "I should have imagined the difficulty would be to refrain from kissing her. Is it too optimistic to hope that you have held her hand?"

Asson made an impatient gesture.

"Not even a little hand-holding?" smiled Lutman. "We were more ardent in my young days. I think I'm entitled to feel a little aggrieved, James, that you haven't even held her hand. But perhaps you've gazed hungrily into her eyes? No? You should try that, James—a hungry, famished look—go without dinner if necessary, and . . ."

"Oh, shut up, Lutman!" exclaimed Asson irritably. "If you're not satisfied you can do the job yourself."

Lutman's smile vanished and his mouth grew grim.

"I'm not satisfied," he snapped. "Time's everything, and I'm telling you that you've got to force the pace. You've been here a whole week and you've done nothing but hang around the girl and look as if you were waiting for a chance to pick her pocket. For Lord's sake do something."

"It's all very well to talk, Lutman, but it's no use rushing things."

"That's just where you're wrong," interrupted the Colonel. "You've got to rush things. You've got to sweep the girl off her feet and get her to marry you before she has time to realize what she's doing. You don't think she'll marry you if she realizes what she's doing, do you?"

"There's no need to be so offensive. . . ."

"I'm feeling offensive. I've spent a lot of money, and so far I've got nothing for it, and I can see that if I don't stand behind and kick you, I never shall get anything."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

(Editor's Note: The Brass Ring, awarded to those who can ride The Washington Merry-Go-Round without losing their sense of humor, is this week's prize of Mrs. Dwight Davis, the former Mrs. Charles Sabin. It is good for one free ride.)

WASHINGTON—Republicans are scarce in Washington these days. They do not scintillate at social gatherings. They keep in the background at the Senate. In general they behave as if Washington were a dark and dreary Democratic world, and the less seen of them the better.

One exception to this is Mrs. Pauline Morton Smith Sabin Davis, better known as Mrs. Charles Sabin, now the wife of Dwight F. Davis.

Mrs. Davis is the daughter of a Republican Cabinet member, is married to a Republican Cabinet member. All three of her husbands and all her traditions have been Republican. But she has to admit that she likes Democrats.

"They're so friendly," she says. "They always call you by your first name. Imagine any Republicans in Coolidge's or Hoover's time doing that!"

Friend Farley

Mrs. Davis even likes the big boss of Democratic politics, Jim Farley. When she first came to Washington, Big Jim, with characteristic courtesy, asked what he could do for her.

"Two things,' Mrs. Davis replied. "Get me a 'No Parking' sign, so I can drive up to my own front door. And second, get me a Supreme Court beau so I can tell when interesting decisions are coming out without going up to the Court and waiting for them."

Farley laughed and said nothing. Shortly thereafter, however, "No Parking" signs appeared in front of the Davis door.

Mrs. Davis had forgotten about her joke with Jim Farley, but when she saw him a week or so later, he said:

"Well, I got you the chance to park in front of your own door, but I don't know about the second request. You see, I haven't got much drag with the Supreme Court."

Anti-Dry Crusade

Mrs. Davis has been a warring woman most of her life. Her father, Paul Morton, was Secretary of the Navy under Teddy Roosevelt. Her present husband, Dwight Davis, was Secretary of War under Coolidge.

But the war which made her famous was against Prohibition. In 1929 she formed the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, brought its membership to half a million (outnumbering the W. C. T. U.) and played an extremely important part in bringing about Repeal.

Mrs. Davis stumped the country, became the subject of bitter controversy among her sex. One letter she has kept as a memento of that fight is from a woman in the Middle West who wrote: "Every night I get down on my knees and ask God to damn your soul."

Cradle Politics

From her father, Paul Morton, Mrs. Davis inherited her name "Pauline" plus the millions derived from Morton's Salt.

She also received a good background in politics. For when only 16 she came with her father to Washington, made her debut here, and gave variety to her dinner parties by taking guests to the Senate for night debates.

Mrs. Davis has been in politics ever since. In 1920 she took the stump for Harding. She also inaugurated the Women's National Republican Club. And more recently, when a Republican club in New York needed redecorating she undertook the job—much to the amusement of the Democrats, who discovered that the bookshelves had been filled with wooden books.

"A symbol of the emptiness of the Republican cause!" shrieked the Democrats.

"Economy, not illiteracy," replied Mrs. Davis.

Whether you agree with Mrs. Davis or not, it is impossible not to like and admire her. She has great charm, vitality, force, and perhaps more important, a sense of humor.

Political Acumen

The New Deal has set a new record in elevating women to high rank, but it is doubtful if any of its favorites could have attained without New Deal favor, the prestige which one Republican woman has achieved through her own force, initiative—and, of course, money.

Mrs. Davis also has intelligence and political acumen. She can maneuver even such a shrewd politico as Jim Farley into tight places. Chatting with him one night, she asked:

"Jim, when did you graduate from high school?"

"When I was 16."

"Did you go to work then?"

"No. I went to business college for a year and went to work after that."

"But you worked before that, didn't you?"

"Yes, I worked in a brickyard when I was 13 or 14."

"Didn't hurt you any, did it?"

"No. It was a great experience—did me a lot of good."

"All right, then why are you for the Child Labor Amendment?"

Seeing what a trap he had been led into, the Postmaster General broke into a broad grin.

"I could knock your block off," he said.

Marriage Spark

Mrs. Davis has tackled a lot of jobs, but with none of them has she been more successful than the revamping of Dwight F. Davis. They were married last year, following the death of Charles Sabin, head of the Guaranty Trust Company.

Davis had been known in Washington as a very drab, very conscientious Secretary of War, and in Manila he had been known as a very drab, very conscientious Governor General of the Philippines. He had no passion in life other than tennis, for the promotion of which he gives the Davis Cup.

But now Dwight Davis suddenly has come to life. He still plays tennis. And, according to his wife, "when he gets that cold tennis look in his eye there is no use trying to keep him at parties."

Now something is there which never was there before. Dwight Davis, who for years has looked as if he didn't care whether school kept or not, at the age of 58 has discovered that life is worth living.

Diet and Health

By DR. LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EXERCISES MUST SUIT FOLK'S AGE

The time is here when the weather permits us to take outdoor daily exercise again. Young, middle-aged and old will all try some of it. Exercise is a lot of fun and a real pleasure. It induces a feeling of health, provided the body is healthy to begin with, and for this reason is probably esteemed as a health-giving measure more than it deserves.

It can sometimes do harm, and the kind of exercise which is taken should be adapted to the individual. I think it is fair to say that it is more for the young man than for the middle-aged and old, and this is something which instinctively everybody follows. As time goes on everyone gradually cuts down on his exercise without realizing it, and there is nothing more pitiful than to see a middle-aged or elderly person doggedly going at some form of exercise which he firmly believes to be health giving and life saving when, as a matter of fact, it is doing him harm and a period of rest would be very much better for him.

I think it can be said without fear of contradiction that unless exercise gives pleasure, and unless the body responds with a feeling of vigor and virility, that it is not beneficial. If you are tired or dragged out after exercise, you should replace it with an equally valuable, if not more health-giving measure—rest.

Games Beneficial

Exercises that are associated with games usually are more beneficial than the others. They are perhaps not as systematic and do not exercise all the muscles of the body quite as well, but the psychological element enters into it, and we get more pleasure and more benefit from exercise in the form of a game than otherwise. We also do more of it unconsciously because we are interested in the game.

For the most of us, games which give exercise are tennis, baseball and golf. It is a fairly good rule that tennis and baseball are only for those of early years, and should not be carried over to the place where excessive breathlessness attends the playing of them. I saw a baseball game the other day in which Hornsby had just resumed his position at second base and everybody was referring to him as the "Old Man". He is actually 41, but that is about the time when most people should give up such strenuous forms of exertion.

Swimming is a good all-around exercise for people of nearly any age. There are two features of swimming that make it very easy for people of any age to take. One is the fact that the body is supported by the water so that the muscles move without undue exertion—that is, without the exertion of supporting the body upright. Also the water is cooling and prevents the uncomfortable feeling of overheating that comes with exercise. For these two reasons swimming can be kept up a good deal longer than any other form of exercise. There is a little danger in that because the patient does not feel the extra effort and may do too much—more than he would if he were playing tennis or golf.

STEEL STOCKS UP IN BRISK RALLY

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—A brisk rise in steels imparted virility to the stock market today.

Fueled by news of well-sustained consumption of steel, leading issues drove ahead and helped tow the rest of the list forward for gains of fractions to 2 points or so.

Coppers and motors were quick to gather momentum after a cautious start. Stores shares had a resting spell, owing in some measure to lower retail sales.

Measured by the Associated Press average of 60 shares the market was up .6 to 68.2. Transactions totaled 480,760 shares compared with 343,560 last Saturday.

Putting life into the coppers, brokers said, was talk of good second quarter earnings for some sectors of the industry.

Providing emphasis on swelling consumer purchasing power was the report of Secretary of Labor Perkins that 20 manufacturing industries had hit record high employment peaks.

Swelling buying power, brokers argued, will help pave the way for wider motor sales.

Prominent on the share market rise were U. S. Steel at 100⅝, Bethlehem 86⅝, Republic Steel 36½, Anaconda 54⅛, Kennecott 58½, American Smelting 88, Chrysler 113⅜, General Motors 57¼, Goodyear 39⅛, General Electric 55 and Standard Oil of New Jersey 47⅛.

Although rails improved they showed less aggressiveness than some other groups. Brokers pointed out the carriers had previously sunk less than industrials.

Up fractions were Santa Fe at 87¾, Baltimore and Ohio 32¾, Pennsylvania 44 and Illinois Central 30⅝. New York Central was up 1¾ at 47.

Utilities also lacked steam for the advance. Oft-repeated talk of legal and legislative structures were once more trotted out by analysts as an explanation, up fractions were Consolidated Edison at 36⅝, American Power and Light 9⅛, American Water Works 18⅛ and United Corp 4¾.

WHEAT HIGHER ON BOARD OF TRADE

By FRANKIN MULLIN
Associated Press Market Writer

CHICAGO, May 22.—The wheat market digested a mixture of bullish and bearish news today with an advance of 1½ cents a bushel that later was partially lost.

Unexpected gains of Liverpool wheat prices and a wide upturn in Chicago corn, with May corn rising to a new 12 year peak of $1.35⅝, more than offset reports of much needed rainfall in important wheat producing areas southwest which served to influence selling, giving the market a nervous, ragged appearance at the close.

Selling of May wheat was resumed late in the day and that contract lost all of the upturn. This liquidation, traders said, apparently represented closing out of May accounts, with only three more days of trading in May contracts permitted. New wheat crop futures held most of their gains however.

Wheat closed ⅛ cent lower to 1¼ cent higher compared with Friday's finish. May $1.28¼, July $1.21½ to $1.21⅝, September $1.20¼ to $1.20¼, and corn was ¼ to 3½ cents higher, May new $1.35¼, July new $1.22⅝ to $1.22⅞, September $1.12¼ to $1.12⅝. Oats gained ¼ to ½ cent, May 51⅜c, rye ¼ to 1 cent, May $1.17¼, and provisions were unchanged to 20 cents higher.

The late advance of almost 3 cents a bushel at Liverpool after a lower opening was unexpected in view of yesterday's Chicago decline, and as a result buyers here lost no time in pushing prices upward to reflect the action abroad.

Short covering hoisted May corn to the highest price paid for any corn delivery in Chicago since 1925 but the advance was even more pronounced in more deferred deliveries. Complaints of too much wet and cool weather delaying germination of the new crop influenced some buying.

Oats and rye advanced with the leading cereals.

High corn prices and prospects of a small run of hogs again next week caused lard market gains.

The Weakness of Esau

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

I Corinthians 9:25—"Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control in all things."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 23 is Genesis 25:19-34; 26:34-35; 27:1-46, especially 25:27-34; 27:41-45, the Golden Text being I Cor. 9:25, "Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control in all things.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

THE HOME LIFE of Isaac and Rebecca and their sons Esau and Jacob was far from exemplary. Their tent was nauseating with the stench of marital duplicity, parental partiality and fratricidal hatred. One wonders at the grace of God that could accomplish any righteous purpose through such faulty instruments. "Esau was a skillful hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a quiet man, dwelling in tents. Now Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his venison: and Rebecca loved Jacob." Despite Isaac's knowledge that God's blessing to the nation was to come through Jacob, he planned to give it through Esau, and Rebecca thought that she must resort to duplicity and deceit to help God get his will over her husband's flesh-centered desires.

Esau Sells His Birthright

Jacob knew the weakness of his brother Esau, his contempt for the spiritual privilege represented in the birthright of the elder son. So he watched his chance to catch Esau in a weak moment when he might drive a hard bargain with him for the birthright Esau esteemed so lightly. The chance came in Esau's hunger on his return from hunting: "Esau said, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint . . . and Jacob said, Sell me this day, thy birthright. So Esau despised his birthright." Esau had no eye for the future, no relish for the sacred or spiritual. He was willing to sell his soul eternally rather than discipline his body momentarily, and the price he set upon his soul was a mess of pottage, a bowl of red lentil soup! Judas Iscariot's price was 30 pieces of silver, Benedict Arnold's was $50,000. Before you set your price for your birthright of virtue, honor or integrity, won't you heed Jesus Christ as he asks, "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

Jacob Receives His Father

In his 136th year, feeling that his death was near, Isaac determined to bequeath his patriarchial blessing upon Esau, although he well knew that God meant this blessing for his younger son Jacob. And Rebecca, feeling that God could not secure his will without her chicanery, urged Jacob to disguise himself as Esau and steal the blessing from his blind father. We may not excuse Jacob for this treachery on the grounds of his tender youth, for he was a man of 77 years when this shameful deceit was perpetrated. Forty-four years later Jacob's own sons deceived him with the bloody coat of many colors, and in the bitterness of his grief over the supposed death of Joseph, Jacob learned how hard is the way of the transgressor. Truly, "the chickens do come home to roost" and "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Rebecca also reaps in despair the results of her duplicity and deceit as Jacob flees from the wrath of Esau, and his mother probably never saw his face again.

The lesson of all this for us is that life is more than what we call riches, or the attainment of what we often misname success, or the enjoyment of what the world calls pleasure. Real life is found only in the doing of the will of God. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."
